Grenadier Guards World War Veterans, Past Serving Grenadier's and Casualties of Conflicts and Troubles, since WW2. (Alphabetical List)

Surname:	Forenames:	Number:	Rank:	Battalion:	DoB:	DoD:	Age:	At Rest:	Remarks:
James	Richard Arthur	445895	2nd Lieutenant	3rd	1-Nov-1935	10-Apr-1956	-	Bettshanger Parish Church, Deal, Kent	Died of Natural Causes in the U.K. (Private Burial)
Janes	Jamie	-	Guardsman	1st	-	5-Oct-2009	20	Unknown	Guardsman Janes died en route to hospital following an explosion while he was on foot patrol, near Nad Ali District Centre in central Helmand province, Afghanistan. Three of his colleagues were also wounded in the blast, which was followed up by an insurgent ambush. He was born in Stafford but his family moved to Brighton when he was two. After beginning his Army career at the age of 16, he joined 1st Battalion Grenadier Guards when he was 18. He leaves his girlfriend, Kate, three brothers, including one currently serving in the Army, two sisters and his mother.
Major Richard Green, his Company Commander, said. "His experience and cool head reassured the younger, less experienced Guardsmen and set their minds at ease as they came to terms with the task at hand," he said. "He died in the way he lived - protecting his friends from danger; a true Grenadier. "Lieutenant Alexander Rawlins, his Platoon Commander, said: "Professionally and socially, he was an integral part of 6 Platoon, good at his job and was always up for a laugh and had already shown his bravery, professionalism and dependability on a previous tour of Afghanistan. He died as a result of wounds he received whilst on patrol, clearing safe passage for his comrades. He also clearly cared deeply about his family and my thoughts are with them at this very sad time. Lieutenant Colonel Walker added: "He knew the dangers he would face in Afghanistan but he had the courage to keep soldiering. He stood tall amongst his fellow men as an experienced hand who willingly stepped forward to take on the difficult task of clearing routes. He leaves behind a strong impression and his memory will inspire us. I am hugely proud of him, and humbled by his sacrifice."
